Counseling Psychology Biography Form

Name: Romero Huffstead

Hometown: Chicago, IL

Research and Applied Interests Statement: Racial, institutional and societal barriers that affect academic performance.

Great book(s) I read in the past year: Quiet Strength (Tony Dungy) and Think Big (Dr. Ben Carson)

Favorite TV show(s): ESPN (Sports Center)

Favorite web-site: www.espn.com

Favorite thing(s) to do in Auburn: Hang out with friends on campus, bowl, play sports and mentor students.

Favorite local eating establishments: Mandarin House, Moe’s Southwest Grill and Country’s BBQ.

My most rewarding Auburn experience thus far: Mentoring students.

One surprising thing you might not know about me: I spent two weekends with Magic Johnson’s family when doing research at Michigan State University in 2007. An amazing experience!

What I do to maintain a balanced life as a graduate student: Hang out with friends, read, play sports, keep in contact with my family and try to adequate sleep.

Advice for applicants and new students: Get ready for a challenging yet rewarding experience. Graduate school will occupy much of your time but the journey is a great one. Be sure to stay focused and never forget the people who look up to you. Your success will serve as motivation to many people to achieve their goals in life!